Cat gets stuck up a tree

By Dan Johnson

Margaret the cat - affectionately known in the area as 'Maggy the Moggy' became entangled within the branches of a nearby tree. Having decided to venture up into the tree in order to chase a butterfly, Maggy soon realised she had become unable to get back down. A nearby neighbour heard Maggy's meowing and called the fire brigade who swiftly came to the rescue. "I didn't paws at all in climbing up the ladder and retrieving the cat - she was a whisker away from falling but I saved her in the nick of time!" - Said the fireman. Maggy said, "It was purrfect!"

Boiling hot, absolutely sizzling. It is being encouraged that everyone should go to the beach and chill out for the rest of the day.

Described by many as 'The one who single handedly changed the course of history', Ramona Egle celebrates her birthday today in what some are saying is the most spectacular style ever seen.

Reports have come in that the 'whole world' is thanking Ramona for all of the wonderful things that she has done in order to make the world a better place. In particular, members of her family and friends join up and wish her the best birthday ever. Mum, Dad, twin sister Zinta, sister Daina, Niece Catherine, even Kaira the dog are all sending their birthday wishes. Jonathan Cainer said "Members of the animal kingdom from beyond the grave have also expressed their birthday wishes to Ramona including: Kazme the harp playing cat and Mr H the hedgehog." Noted not just for her tremendous generosity, she is also recognised in the folk world as having the voice of an angel, the harp playing virtuosity of O'Carolan, the fiddle playing dexterity of Paganini and the whistle playing mastery of Neansaí Ní Choisdealbha*

At the recent BBC FOLK MUSIC AWARDS 2011, Ramona was awarded the prestigious 'Bestest folk singer, musician and down right lovely person in the world of all time ever - no seriously omg she's great' award. In an interview it was said that she said "I've worked my whole life for this award I just want to thank all my sponsors for believing in me."

It has been suggested that Ramona will be celebrating her birthday for the next six years "on a yacht in the Caribbean with the cast of Black Books, Paulo Coelho, a collection of small furry animals and a local brewery," although the source has yet to be verified.

In an interview, her partner Dan said "I just want to take this opportunity to publicly thank Ramona for being such a wonderful person. She puts so much energy in to helping everyone but herself so I thought it was high time she got the recognition she rightly deserves." He concluded, "Ramona is unclassifiable. Her heartfelt kindness transcends human nature. She is a true human god of Mother Teresa like proportions."

A local hillbilly commented "The girl can't do no wrong." Well you can't argue with that!
